Seven Assigned To Help Council Ease Traffic

Merchants, Officials Present Views At Luncheon Meeting

Seven Salem citizens, comprising a committee named Friday by Chamber of Commerce president Alroy Bloomberg, will undertake the search for an agreeable solution of the thorny downtown traffic problem.

Discussion of the local situation engaged 50 merchants and professional men at a luncheon meeting with city officials at the Lape Hotel.

Members of the committee will work with city council, through surveys and otherwise, in the hope that differences of opinion may be composed and the bottleneck on E. State eased if not entirely eliminated. Those named by Mr. Bloomberg for this task are: George Bowman Jr., chairman; Thomas Howett, Attorney Henry Reese, James Aldom, Robert McCulloch Jr., Howard Firestone and Attorney Charles McCorkhill.

Mayor Reviews Situation Speaking on behalf of business on E. State at Friday's meeting, Mr. Bowman said:

"Council has a problem and we want to help in every way possible. Through traffic is favored in recent proposals at the expense of local merchants. Objections have been raised at both ends of State st. We believe every effort should be made to provide ample parking space."

Mayor Harry M. Vincent reviewed Salem's downtown problem as it has grown through the past 15 years. By-passes, he said, had been discussed in council meetings on various occasions but always seemed to encounter the objection that the plans discriminated against one or the other business area.

"We are not discriminating against anyone," the mayor said. "Council has recommended that parking be eliminated in congested State street but this proposal has been made without prejudice for any business or any individual. If the city does not solve its traffic problem the state of Ohio will give us no financial assistance for the paving of the street and may even institute cut-offs for state routes."

Proposes One-way Traffic Michael Schuller, chairman of council's safety committee, refuted the report that council neglected notification to all concerned when it passed the parking resolution. He said the city planning commission, merchants and civic committees all had been advised about it as a temporary measure to deal with congestion.

Abolition of left turns and the establishment of one-way streets were supported by Attorney Henry Reese, speaking on behalf of Louis Mattevi, proprietor of the Lape Hotel.

Mr. Reese expressed little concern over the possibility that the state might divert its highways, considering the expense such action would involve. "Looking into the future, a turnpike is to be built in this area of Ohio and some traffic will be diverted anyway," he said.

Mr. Reese said that in 1942 the city paid $1,000 of an $8,000 paving estimate for work on the street. If the state will make no contribution unless parking is now eliminated, he said, a new paving project might be financed on a voluntary basis, with contributions by merchants.

Mayor Vincent said it was his understanding a new paving job could not be done except through heavy expense, possibly requiring that the street be torn up.

The mayor thought might be alleviated through a lease of the Columbus school property which is to be abandoned.

Clerks, Trustees Group Plan For Convention

The Columbiana County Clerks and Trustees Association held a pre-convention meeting in the Presbyterian Church in Lisbon Friday night. Thirty persons attended.

Resolutions to be presented at the state convention of the group in Cincinnati next Wednesday and Thursday were discussed. Louis Sanford, president, had charge of the meeting. Lunch was served by the ladies of the church.

Sanford, and Neil MacIntosh, secretary of the association, will be delegates to the convention which will be attended by several trustees and clerks in this area.

Arms Aid Bill Limits Truman

Lucas Expects Senate Approval Of Revision

WASHINGTON, June 17—(AP)—Early senate approval of a $1,222,500,000 foreign arms program was forecast today by Senator Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader.

At the same time, Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) said he regards a bill revised by the combined senate foreign relations and armed services committees as much more satisfactory than the original draft offered by the State Department.

The committees informally approved the authorization measure yesterday after acting to limit President Truman's power to furnish military supplies to other nations.

In his original request, Mr. Truman sought authority to give arms to any nation whose defense he regarded as vital to the security of the United States.

Money for the program will have to be approved in a separate bill.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the combined committees held the bill open for a Monday session at which Senator Lodge (R-Mass.) will have a chance to bring up again his idea for using part of the European Recovery Program's counterpart funds to pay for arms manufacture.

Connally conceded that Lodge has some support for his proposal but said he does not believe any such amendment will be included in the bill.

4 Vehicles Involved In Road Accidents

Four vehicles were involved in two accidents on district highways, the State Highway patrol reported today.

A car driven by Chester A. MacMillan, 29, of Columbus and a truck-trailer operated by Jack Nabors, 29, of Carroll, Ill., sideswiped on Route 224, two and two-tenths miles east of Deerfield.

MacMillan was going west and Nabors was traveling east when both motorists, driving near the center line, collided.

MacMillan received cuts about the face when his rear view mirror was broken and showered glass in the car. The left side of his car was damaged.

A car driven by Steve Prus, 65, of R. D. 5, Salem and a state highway department mow-er driven by Earl C. Cover, 65, of North Lima collided at 12:50 p. m. Friday on Routes 7 and 224.

Cover, going south, signaled for a left turn. Prus, who was following the mow-er, didn't see the signal and hit it.

The right front fender and the side panels of Prus' car and the left front wheel and the steering column of the tractor pulling the mow-er were damaged.

MOTORIST DRAWS FINE Harry Westphal of R. D. 4, Salem, was fined $10 and costs by Mayor Harry M. Vincent this morning on a charge of reckless operation. Westphal was stopped by police on E. State st. at 12:30 this morning.

Defense Chiefs Will Discuss Japanese Peace

Johnson, Gen. Bradley To Confer With MacArthur, Dulles

TOKYO, June 17—(AP)—America's two top defense chiefs sped toward Japan tonight for talks with General MacArthur which may break the peace treaty logjam.

The talks also may decide on what basis—if any—the United States can hold Japanese military bases in an Orient menaced by the march of communism.

Secretary of Defense Johnson and Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, left Manila by plane today after talks with U. S. military chiefs there. They were due in Tokyo at 11:45 a. m. (10:45 a. m. Salem time).

They will be joined here Tuesday by John Foster Dulles, State Department adviser. Dulles, who stopped here briefly earlier today before going on to South Korea, said the talks will determine "if it is wise at this time to proceed with a peace treaty" for Japan.

MacArthur Wants Bases Dulles said, however, he was interested in the political, economic and social issues, not "primarily with military matters."

The latter was the concern of the defense chiefs—and MacArthur. MacArthur is reported to feel the Japanese are entitled to an early treaty, but that the United States must not yield its military bases.

A groundswell of peace talk rolled across Japan. Many Japanese feel the coming week will be one of the most important in their history.

Newspapers discussed the prospects from virtually every angle. So did the politicians. Government and party officials debated their respective stands.

The report that British countries favor a soft peace, influenced the Japanese attitude. Many Japanese think the occupation has reached a climax and if it continues, will incur increasing resentment.

Line of Reasoning

They think a peace treaty will forestall any crumbling of Japan's attitude toward the Western Allies. Some even talk vaguely of an "arrangement" giving them sovereignty and control of their own affairs—if a full treaty is not forthcoming for military reasons.

These Japanese realize the difficulties involved in peace: The closeness of Soviet Russia and Red China, the threat to their own security, the distrust in which many nations still hold Japan.

But they want an end to the occupation.

The Army ordered unusual precautions for the arrival of Johnson and Bradley. Only 10 Japanese reporters and three photographers were cleared to meet the defense chiefs. Accredited Allied correspondents were told they could meet the plane, but must keep their distance and not speak out of turn.

U. S. troops planned one of the occupation's largest military parades Monday for the defense chiefs. Twelve thousand soldiers, sailors and airmen will pass in review. MacArthur will join Bradley and Johnson in the reviewing stand as 240 planes zoom overhead.

Swarm Of Bees Attacks Man; Stings Prove Fatal

SANDUSKY, June 17—Anthony Edward Ostheimer, Sr., 39, shipping foreman of the American Crayon Co., was stung to death by bees, Dr. Harrison W. Pratt, Erie County coroner, ruled this afternoon.

The Sandusky resident, with long bee-keeping experience, was attacked by a swarm in the yard of a neighbor. The bees had flown into a tree and neighbors summoned Ostheimer to return them to their hive in the rear of his parents' home.

He was stung many times on his head and body, and collapsed and died after he climbed down from a ladder.

Britain Recants On Pool Stand

Attlee Alerts Envoys To Offset Criticism

LONDON, June 17—(AP)—Prodded by American criticism, Britain is going on record that it will not stay out of a proposed coal-steel pool because it opposes European cooperation.

British ambassadors in Washington and Paris were told yesterday to explain that Britain will consider joining the pool as soon as details of the plan's operation are known.

The move came after Prime Minister Clement Attlee conferred with Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin at the hospital where Bevin is recovering from an operation.

The government has accepted a challenge to debate the plan and its own position June 26. Both British conservatives and European socialists have attacked a British Labor Party statement which rejected the proposals of French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman.

The party opposed establishing a European central authority with power for decision that would affect the economy of member countries.

Attlee has said that the Labor Party's statement does not represent the government's official stand. Dean Acheson, U. S. secretary of state, has accepted that view.

But the government here fears to private life apparently ends, at least temporarily, a phenomenal career in which he parlayed his fame as a racketeering prosecutor into two terms as governor and two lukewarm GOP nominations for president.

Last winter he renounced future presidential aspirations. Dewey said he had reached no decision as to his plans, but he indicated he probably would return to private law practice in New York City.

He said that in the last 18 months he had received several offers. He said they included the presidency of two large universities, a large insurance company and a business corporation.

He said he also had entertained a number of proposals for law partnerships.

Delaware Youth Wins National 'Mibs' Crown

EATON RAPIDS, Mich., June 17—(AP)—The nation's "mibs" champion for 1950 is Tilton Holt, 11-year-old negro boy from Wilmington, Del.

Tilton turned out to be the No. 1 knuckle-shooter of 'em all in a field of 41 boys in the Veterans of Foreign Wars national marbles tournament.

The Delaware lad defeated Gordon Rowse of Ogden, Utah, in the finals last night, two games out of three. Tilton won a trip to New York, a bicycle and a couple of trophies.

Dewey Chooses Not To Run

Governor To Enter Private Law Practice

ALBANY, N. Y., June 17—(AP)—Governor Dewey today said he would not be a candidate for re-election.

He said he probably would enter private law practice when his term expires next Dec. 31. Dewey said he was very tired after 20 years in public life but that there was nothing wrong with him that a first-class long rest would not cure.

Dewey's long-awaited decision apparently left the field clear for the nomination of 74-year-old Lt. Gov. Joe R. Hanley for governor at the state convention in Saratoga Spring Sept. 6-7. He is regarded as far in the lead for the nomination.

Asked whether he had a choice, Dewey said:

"I shall not attempt to dictate the choice of the convention of any candidate for any office."

Dewey's public announcement consisted of a 10-word statement which he handed to reporters at the capitol during a news conference. It said:

"I shall not be a candidate for re-election next fall."

Dewey said that he had voluntarily retired from public office twice before—in 1933 and 1941. He did not elaborate.

The 48-year-old Dewey's return to private life apparently ends, at least temporarily, a phenomenal career in which he parlayed his fame as a racketeering prosecutor into two terms as governor and two lukewarm GOP nominations for president.

Last winter he renounced future presidential aspirations. Dewey said he had reached no decision as to his plans, but he indicated he probably would return to private law practice in New York City.

Two Potteries Destroyed When Kiln Explodes

2 Families Missing After Dam Burst Floods Ohio Town

CROOKSVILLE, O., June 17—(AP)—Disaster swept into this pottery-making community of 3,000 today when a flash flood broke a nearby dam, exploded a huge kiln and set off a fire which burned two potteries to the ground.

Two families were missing after their homes were swept away.

The dam-bursting flood followed a terrific cloudburst which cut a wide swath through Ohio from southwest to northeast.

Crooksville lies 20 miles south of Zanesville in south central Ohio.

Official damage figures were not available. But a member of the Crooksville fire department, Calvin Ross, said he believed was at least $1,250,000 to three plants alone—$750,000 to the potteries and $500,000 to the big Ohio Power Company station here.

Harold Shower, superintendent of the Acme Pottery Co., one of the two potteries destroyed, estimated the damage to the plant at $1,000,000. The pottery is a complete loss, he added, and all that is left standing is part of the walls.

Scramble To Roof Tops Meanwhile, the state highway patrol reported water in Crooksville's business section was down to about two feet, but remained higher in some residential areas.

No one would hazard a guess as to the damage to business houses and homes.

The cascade of water gushed up a narrow valley from the broken Misco Mine Company dam five miles southeast. Residents of Crooksville's low-lying areas scrambled to their rooftops.

Five houses in the tiny community of Rose Farm near the dam were washed away by the first rush of water late last night.

Three of the families were accounted for. No trace of the other two was found. They were not immediately identified.

When the avalanche of water hit Crooksville, the state highway patrol reported, one of the town's main streets immediately became a river five feet deep.

Electric Power Off Panic spread as the water coursed through the town. The wave of water engulfed the Ohio Power Company's Crooksville station and all electric power in Crooksville and surrounding communities ceased.

As frightened citizens frantically sought refuge in the darkened town, the water reached a huge pottery kiln at the Acme Pottery Company. The kiln blew up with a spectacular puff of flame.

Almost immediately, the entire pottery, which normally employs more than 300, was a mass of flame.

Between 30 and 35 persons who had sought refuge in the pottery building were rescued without casualty. Firemen were unable to reach the plant because of the water and the building was leveled.

The fire spread to the adjoining Ceramic Pottery Company plant and destroyed it, too. It normally employs about 200.

The avalanche of water, which started its rush northward from the broken dam in Black Fork creek, roared into Jonathan creek south of Crooksville, poured

Acheson Hails Harriman Job

Diplomat To Steer Foreign Policy Plans

WASHINGTON, June 17—(AP)—President Truman is expected to have much tighter control over the formation of major foreign policy programs as a result of the new appointment he has handed to Ambassador W. Averell Harriman.

As the President's assistant for foreign affairs, officials said today, Harriman will supply constant White House direction to the creation of plans for such important projects as:

1. The development of America's part in setting up balanced defense forces under the North Atlantic treaty.

2. The organization of new foreign economic policies to follow up the European Recovery Program ending in 1952.

Secretary of State Acheson hailed the Harriman appointment at a news conference yesterday as supplying a long recognized need for greater cooperation among government departments with an interest in foreign affairs.

Answering questions, Acheson said that as specific tasks arise, Harriman may coordinate the work of the Defense, Labor, Treasury and Commerce Departments, as well as other agencies which figure in policy formation.

Announcement of the new job for Harriman brought some speculation that the administration might have in mind grooming him as Acheson's successor. There was no information from official sources, however, to lend support to this idea.

New Arrests In Spy Probe Seen

3 Nabbed By FBI Held Under $100,000 Bond

WASHINGTON, June 17—(AP)—With three American citizens under arrest, additional pieces are falling into place in the jig-saw pattern of Soviet wartime spying in the United States.

By all indications, further arrests are in the offing.

However, it is known that scores of FBI agents have spent many months putting together bits of information from all sorts of sources in an effort to complete the picture.

What was perhaps the key piece of the spy puzzle fell into place with the arrest last February of Dr. Klaus Fuchs, a top British atomic scientist. Detained by British Intelligence on information originally developed by the FBI, Fuchs admitted giving the Russians atom secrets and was sent to prison for 14 years.

After top G-men had interviewed Fuchs in prison last month, the bureau closed in on Harry Gold, 39-year-old Philadelphia chemist, who had long been under FBI watch. Gold admitted acting as a courier between Fuchs and Soviet agents in this country during the war.

With the pattern taking shape, the FBI picked up Alfred Dean Slack, 44, chemist employed by a paint manufacturing concern at Syracuse, N. Y., and David Greenglass, 28, former U. S. Army sergeant, of New York City.

Each of the three Americans is charged with wartime espionage, which carries a possible death penalty. Each is held on $100,000 bond.

Slack was accused of delivering to Gold, for the benefit of the Russians, top secrets about the manufacture of "RDX," an explosive.

Greenglass, who was assigned to the Los Alamos atomic project in 1945, and who was described as having worked on the A-bomb itself, was charged with turning atomic information over to Gold at Albuquerque, N. M., in the summer of that year.

Aviatix Missing In 'Powder Puff' Derby

WASHINGTON, June 17—(AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Administration said today a check is being made of airports and landing fields in Virginia to locate Marjorie Harrison, missing contestant in the "powder puff" derby, a Montreal to West Palm Beach, Fla., air race.

The CAA said the Ecco air port at Riverdale, Md., near Washington, reported that Miss Harrison left there at 5:30 p. m. Friday afternoon to continue her flight south.

The airport said she stopped there briefly and inquired about weather around Quantico and Richmond, Va. Officials said the Washington flyer, who works at the Treasury department, told them she intended to fly as far south as she could last night before darkness set in. She had no set destination.

The CAA said she had stopped near Philadelphia Friday night and flew to Riverdale yesterday afternoon. Bad weather had impeded her progress.

Confident Living

By DR. NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

There Are No Hopeless Situations

YOU CAN rise above every failure.

This sounds like a tremendous, almost incredible assertion, yet I have weighed these words very carefully and I believe them. Some people might be tempted to substitute the word "some" for the word "every" but I think it belongs just where it is. You can rise above every failure.

On what ground can I make so amazing a promise? It would be cruel to deal lightly with the tragedies we all face. A person who has failed finds life bleak and unhappy. It would not be an act of kindness to tell him he could rise above his failures unless it were true.

Let me illustrate the truth of what I have said by telling you Dr. Peale about a friend of mine, a prominent merchant. He started out in life, as he puts it, "with seven hundred dollars and a wife." That was all he had, but he always remembers to add, "Well, I guess I did have something else; I had some good old-fashioned faith in God."

He opened a store dealing in merchandise for women. It was just a little place, "a hole in the wall." But, over the years, that tiny shop grew into one of the greatest establishments in the country and its owner became a leading citizen of his community.

Then trouble came, what with one thing after another, and one day he found that he had lost the business and just about everything else he had. So, at the age of 47, he was back where he had started. He had about the same amount of money, the same wife and, most important, the same faith in God. The big difference was that, the first time, he had been 22, and at 22 you are not afraid of anything in the world—you have the effervescence and confidence of youth. But when you get to be an "old" man of 47, the youthful quality begins to slip from you. You are more likely to want to lie back and take it easy than you were at 22.

BUT THIS MAN did not just lie back and take it easy. He was a real worker and a real believer. He pulled back his shoulders and went at it again. At 47, he opened up for the second time in a one-room store. It wasn't easy going all the way and there must have been times when the path ahead seemed very dark, but, nevertheless, today his second store is larger than the one he lost. It is one of the great institutions in its field.

I asked a mutual friend to explain to me how this man could have made so dramatic a comeback. "He has some indefinable, resilient quality," I was told, "that lends him the ability to bounce back from failure."

Then I asked the man himself to explain this power of his, and this is what he said: "I will give it to you in my favorite saying, 'I can do all things through God who giveth me the strength.'"

You could never persuade a man like this that any situation is hopeless. He knows you can rise above any failure.

IN ANY OF YOUR own discouragements or apparent failures, always look carefully for those values which, if properly utilized, will help you to rise and develop a greater structure than ever before. In fact, it will help whenever tragedy or disaster seems about to overtake you to ask yourself the question, "I wonder what good thing God is trying to give to me?"

This is not a pollyanna attitude, but a truth which thousands have learned from bitter experience. It will do you no good to sit down and bewail your fate and grow cynical. Never let yourself feel defeated; always look for the bright good which may be imminent.

"Picturing" your vacation is a real "snap" when you get set for it in our complete Camera Department. Whether you're an amateur who just wants a pretty good snap... or a professional who demands perfection... we have everything you need. Stop and see us today.

During this period, young people from the various countries will be working and living together, exchanging ideas and learning to better understand each other.

The last part of the tour will be spent in England and Scotland, visiting places such as Windsor Castle, Eton College, Stoke Poges, Hampton Court Palace, Westminster Abbey, Buckingham Palace, Houses of Parliament, Oxford University and places made historically famous by William Shakespeare.

The party will leave England August 31 abroad the S.S. Samaria and expect to arrive in Quebec Sept. 9.

The marriage of Miss Ida Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Ward, and William Enberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Enberg, was solemnized in the bride's home at 4:30 p. m. Saturday, June 10. White flowers and seven-branch candelabra were placed on the mantel and ferns and palms were banded in front of the fireplace.

A profusion of summer flowers added further decoration. Rev. W. S. Longworth, pastor of Columbiana Methodist Church, heard the exchange of vows in the double-ring ceremony in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride was attractive in her street-length wedding dress of white frosted organza and wore a white picture hat. She carried a white Bible on which rested a white orchid with white satin streamers.

The nephews of the bride, Jimmy and Jerry Ward, were ring-bearers. The couple was unattended.

The bride's mother wore a light blue dress with navy accessories and the bridegroom's mother was dressed in a dark blue dress with white accessories. Both ladies wore corsages of red roses.

Immediately following the ceremony the bridal party was served a dinner in The Grim Tea Room, East Palestine.

The bride, a graduate of Fairfield High School and the Business School at Youngstown College, was employed at the Mullins Co. in Salem. Mr. Enberg, a graduate of Mineral Ridge High School, is with the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co.

The couple will live in their own home at 139 Vine st. as soon as it is vacated.

By Presidential Direction

THE CORE of Mr. Truman's decision to veto the base-point bill is in this statement of his veto message:

"I recognize that businessmen have been concerned lest they be penalized for perfectly sensible and appropriate competitive action. I believe their concern is unwarranted. If in the future there should be clear evidence to the contrary, the law should, of course, be changed."

The statement implies that by Presidential direction there will be no attempt by the federal trade commission to enlarge on the Supreme Court's ruling that the basing-point practices of the cement industry violated the Sherman and Clay acts. The court's decision held that it was illegal to enter into a conspiracy to set up and enforce prices under a basing-point system. It did not hold that the system itself was wrong.

Congress, however, tried to remove all doubt by passing a bill to spell out what could be done legally. Mr. Truman believes additional legislation would merely give lawyers more words to distort. He chooses, therefore, to let matters stand as they are. There is nothing illegal about a basing-point system of quoting prices if the system is not the result of a conspiracy to restrain trade. The cement institute case which was settled in 1948 has no bearing on the basing-point system but only on conspiracies in violation of the Sherman and Clayton acts.

Mr. Truman has done more to clarify the situation than a new law would have done. He has told business enterprises that it will not be heckled by the government for using basing-point system to determine prices.

Look At It Again

THROUGHOUT the 20th century, the phrase "Fabian Socialism" has been so common that many who use it do not know what it implies. If they knew, they would be less glib about it.

No American citizen should fail to find out what Fabian Socialism means, because the fate of his country may depend on coming to grips with it.

It is named for Quintus Fabius Maximus, whose tactics against Hannibal when the latter marched against Rome more than 200 years before the birth of Christ became history's classic example of never coming to grips with an adversary. Hence, Fabian Socialism, which avoids a showdown with the opposition but seeks constantly to snipe away the opposition's manpower and break its will to fight.

The birthplace of Fabian Socialism was England. The movement there finally weakened the opposition so seriously it was able to win the postwar election in 1945. But England is only an appetizer for the Fabians; the United States is their meat. They are using the classic tactics of their movement here—and using them with success, thanks to the help of the coalition which has held power since 1933.

There is a footnote to the story of Quintus Fabius Maximus. He preferred to wear down the enemies of Rome by stabs in the dark and hit-and-run attacks. But when his own enemies were involved, he squelched them in a hurry. This, too, has been copied by Fabian Socialists. They fight like dogs and cats inside their own ranks over whether to risk a showdown in the countries they intend to seize, or whether to nibble away at the internal structure of such countries until it collapses.

Something Extra For Pop

A LETTER unsigned but obviously written in good faith by an aged parent, inquires gently whether a present for mothers and fathers on the separate days for honoring them is enough.

"Don't be cheap," the writer admonishes all "children"—"bring to mother and dad the priceless gift of your love. Nothing else will suffice. When you see the shining light in their eyes, your happiness will be complete."

There always has been but one bad aspect of Mother's Day and Father's Day. They were an easy way out for those who were looking for one. A tangible gift could be made to take the place of the solitude and companionship which are the things aged mothers and fathers frequently want most from their children. Mother's Day is past for 1950, but Father's Day is just ahead—June 18. Our reader's reminder that many of them want one thing beyond price which costs nothing is timely. Give pop a present, sure—he likes to get presents. But let him have the only reward he ever hoped to receive, too, give him a pat on the head—a love pat.

It has been suggested that one way to break up the notorious Mafia gang which is in the crime picture in the U.S. is to get at its roots in Italy.

'Minute Man'

By PETER EDSON

Movement Inspired By American Guard

ANDERSON, IND. SUCCESS of this community's "American Guard" political education and reform movement raises the question of whether the idea will spread in Indiana and to other states.

Already there have been inquiries from other places. Charles O. Harbaugh, young executive director of the Anderson American Guard, has in the last few weeks made talks on the Guard movement in Seymour, Connerville, Crawfordsville, Muncie, Fort Wayne and Indianapolis.

Harbaugh also told about the success of the American Guard in the primary election, at a meeting of the Tri-State Baker's Association, in Chicago. St. Louis, Mo., has sent a delegation to Anderson to study American Guard operations at first hand. A number of St. Louis citizens have enrolled as members of the Anderson American Guard.

Thus far the Anderson American Guard has sent out no paid organizers to promote growth of the idea. If any other city with similar political clean-up problems on its hands wants to know how the American Guard tackled its job, the Anderson founders will be glad to tell them. But they aren't soliciting members yet.

There are evidences, however, that the Anderson American Guard founding fathers had this idea in mind. They incorporated under state law, so they can expand all over Indiana. And they have ideas on how they might become a national organization.

AT THE PRESENT TIME, Crawfordsville, Ind., has gone farther than any other Indiana city in following the Anderson lead. But Crawfordsville is going to change the Anderson formula considerably.

Sparkplug of the movement in Crawfordsville is Russell Thompson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. In Anderson, the American Guard was completely divorced from the Chamber of Commerce. In Crawfordsville, the Chamber of Commerce will do the whole thing.

Crawfordsville will not use the name "American Guard." Instead, it will be called the "Minute Man" campaign. The familiar figure of the Lexington Minute Man monument, that was used during the war savings bond drives, will be the symbol for all advertising, publicity and membership pins. The political situation in Crawfordsville is entirely different from what Anderson experienced. Crawfordsville is principally known as the seat of Wabash

College. Crawfordsville's industries—dominated by a branch plant of a Chicago printing company—are largely open shop plants. Crawfordsville has had no bad labor relations problems and no C.I.O.-P.A.C. to contend with.

There really is no great political clean-up movement to put over in Crawfordsville. But the Crawfordsville Chamber of Commerce and some 350 local business men feel that the voters need educating on public issues in the November elections.

In the words of Mr. Thompson, one of the purposes of the Crawfordsville educational campaign will be to "Knock out the idea that security is anything to seek. The sad part of the New Deal," he says, "is that it has made people lose the feeling of satisfaction in doing something for themselves."

AS DIRECT TARGETS, the Crawfordsville campaign will shoot at the Brannan plan, socialized medicine, high taxes and the welfare state, which it will refer to as "The Poorhouse State." "We don't want to make the professional Democrats mad," says Mr. Thompson, "but we do want to do our little bit to stop socialism in America. . . . It's opportunity we want, not security."

"We're still American enough to believe that if enough people go to the polls, we can beat these things," Mr. Thompson concludes. "But," he adds, "if a majority of the people still want what we've got now so be it. This is democracy."

This rather frank statement of objectives brings up the matter of the real purposes of the Anderson American Guard. The Guard has won its reputation for conducting a bi-partisan political clean-up campaign. But its real aims are stated in its constitution.

There are a few generalities that everyone can agree with, such as "To study the Constitution of the United States . . . To abide by and promote the teaching of the word of God. . . ."

But along with these are some specifics; "To demand a reduction of . . . Federal controls over business. To guard against individual rights being sacrificed for security. To demand that the Federal government refrain from competing with private industry. To insure the farmers of a stabilized—but not socialized—agricultural economy."

These reveal the American Guard for what it really is, or what it might become if it grows to state-wide or national proportions. It is a political movement, complete in itself, and with a program and platform all its own. (NEA Service)

These Hotel Guests

TAKE IT from the men who should know, the average hotel guest is a great guy. He pays the bills for a billion-dollar business. But he can drive you stark, raving mad.

He can be—and often is—a tippler, a thief or a sentimental slob. He'll keep other guests awake, flood their rooms from his overflowing bathtubs and chase them down the hall.

That's one of the reasons hotel rates are high. The guest not only is paying for a room, service and convenience. He's paying for towels, ash trays and light bulbs he loads in his suitcase. He's helping repair the furniture he burns and stains. He's paying for detective service, damage suits and business loss from bad publicity.

You'd think to hear them tell about it that the 500 delegates to the 40th annual convention of the Hotel Greeters of America—the men who should know—are in the worst business in the land.

Not at all. Most of them wouldn't trade their jobs and ulcers for any other way of losing sleep and making a living.

Take A. F. Spatafora. He's the manager of the Hotel Monteleone in New Orleans. He started in the business as a 13-year-old bell boy 46 years ago. Mr. Spatafora claps his hand dramatically to his forehead when you mention troubles—but he plans to stay in the business a while more.

He still is afraid of ghosts, a hangover from his bell hopping days when a seven-foot character with a long beard used to call for service, then wrap himself in a sheet and jump out at the boys from unexpected corners.

Then there was the guest that called up from a bar in the middle of the night and demanded that Mr. Spatafora find his teen. Mr. Spatafora finally located them—in a spittoon.

Of course, the managers insist, the guests in their own particular hotels aren't like the others, they're all very nice. The delegates—guests themselves for four days—also are models of propriety. They admit it.

Anybody Want a Job?

Weakness of Investigating Committees

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON THERE ARE two things which, from a political viewpoint, the Democratic party cannot afford to do at this session of Congress. One is not to enact a new tax law and the other is not to investigate the "Amerasia" case thoroughly, letting "whitewash" tactics prevail.

If the Democrats go to the country this autumn with a $5,000,000,000 deficit and a record of having done nothing to improve tax receipts, the opposition party will certainly make inroads into the Democratic party membership at the polls. Inasmuch as the Democrats control the White House and the two houses of Congress, they cannot avoid responsibility for failing to enact a new tax law.

As for the "Amerasia" case, the federal grand jury in New York has pointed out through its foreman, John G. Brunini, that while it found no "legal evidence" to show that Department of Justice officials had been remiss in prosecuting the "Amerasia" case, there should nevertheless be a further inquiry by a new grand jury and that all the stolen documents should be revealed. It was pointed out in the grand jury statement that there was not time enough to make a thorough inquiry at this time.

ALL THIS POINTS to but one thing—there is a public interest in getting at the bottom of the case. The new grand jury, when it is empaneled, cannot actually prosecute the case nor can it ever indict any official for an attitude of carelessness or laxity or poor judgment. All this is something that can be uncovered only through the comprehensive investigation that can be made by a congressional committee.

The cry of "whitewash" is heard more and more. Senator Tydings himself was quick to interpret the grand jury report as a vindication of his committee's attitude toward the "Amerasia" case. Actually it is just the opposite.

On the subject of "whitewashing" and why it happens, a notable speech has just been made by Senator Elbert D. Thomas, Democrat of Utah, chairman of the all-important labor and education committee of the senate. In urging the appointment of a national commission of 30 to investigate security cases, he said to the senate:

"To the end that complete faith be given to the investigating body and its findings, such investigations embodying the grave nature of the Tydings investigation, for example, should be conducted with complete disregard for personal and party prejudice. This is a duty the Congress owes to the people of the United States."

"To fulfill this duty of objective inquiry, it seems to me that we should tolerate no longer in these crucial days a defective system of searching into questions of grave public concern, such as the national security, for example."

THE CONGRESS has continued to use such a system of majority party control of its investigating committees which gives rise to doubts, suspicions, and misgivings in a large segment of the public as to the value and thoroughness of the committee's findings and report . . .

"Party politics, bias, personal prejudices, and like attitudes have no place in such investigations. There is an area where party and political interests have their legitimate place, but beyond that area there must be no such considerations."

The commission proposed by Senator Thomas was outlined in a bill introduced by him jointly with Senator Ives, Republican of New York. The commission would consist partly of members of Congress and partly of citizens outside Congress. But the membership at all times would be equal as between the two political parties.

It is plain that the two senators have put their finger on the main weakness today—partisan control of investigating committees.

And he's the kind of fellow would appreciate a trip to New York . . . married 21 years and hardly been out of the house.

Any man who can raise 20 children at today's prices either is getting crop support or he has discovered a new route to economics.

But Secretary Snyder says we're all doing well . . . if you aren't you just aren't reading the government reports of prosperity.

Do you know that last year the American people had so much money in their savings accounts that most of them owed it to somebody?

And we can do better this year if we try.

Secret Pasts

By HAL BOYLE

Newspapermen's Ears Hear Much

NEW YORK

EVERYBODY has a secret life. Or certainly everyone tries to. Some facet of his career, past or present . . . some wayward longing . . . some shameful deed of good will . . . some odd attitude toward the world . . . a person likes to hold to his heart and apart from those who know him best.

The funny thing about it all is that often he will blurt out to strangers this secret he'd lie about rather than reveal to a lifelong acquaintance. I spend a great part of my life meeting strangers. And they tell me the damndest things sometimes.

Cynics say the greatest secrets in America are locked in safe deposit vaults—or buried under concrete in the basement or under dirt in the backyard, twelve paces North northeast of the old elm tree.

However, I feel that most of these secrets—dollars hidden from the income tax collector—have been dug up since the end of the war and invested or spent.

THE REAL REPOSITORIES of secrets in our times are the ears of priests, the dossiers of lawyers, the health verdicts of doctors—and the memories of newspaper reporters.

When I was a student in the University of Missouri School of Journalism, I took a course in interviewing. I was taught that I should avoid bringing out pencil and paper because that might cause the subject of the interview to "freeze up."

It took me about ten years of reporting to learn that this theory was completely wrong—at least for me. I found that the quickest way I could get the confidence of someone I was interviewing was to haul out the old notebook and scribble down his words, just as he said them.

But very, very often people say things to me that make me pause my pencil. They tell me—a complete stranger, passing through their lives like a wind—things too private for print. At least for my print.

What? Well, chiefly their worries. Their wives drink too much, or their boys aren't doing what papa would like, or they wonder out loud whether, after all, they made the right decision in life. And what can you do but murmur consolation? A reporter isn't a psychiatrist. People just often treat him like he is.

SOMETIMES they say things to you acutely embarrassing. Like the woman who told me of a murder, never recorded.

"This old lady was lonesome," she said. "And she told me how she made herself a widow. She had been married to a man who had beat her and cheated on her for 30 years. He thought she was just a helpless housewife he was tied to by the law."

"Well, one day she figured out his insurance—and there was enough to keep her the rest of her life."

"The next morning as she was getting the car out of the garage to drive him to the station she saw him there in front of the headlights like a sitting duck. So she ran over him."

"Then she backed the car over him. Then she ran over him again. Then she ran for the neighbors. They carried him into the house, and just before he died the husband grumbled, 'that poor fool—she never could drive a car!'"

"And the old lady is still living off his insurance, and doesn't regret a thing."

What, dear reader, would you do with that secret?

The woman who told me this story did—exactly nothing. She was married herself. And she wouldn't even tell me the name of the lady who put the car wheels over her husband three times—"accidentally," as the saying goes.

The moral: Let your wife open the garage door.

Constance Marie Petrucci Wed To Paul R. Campanelli

REV. FR. WILLIAM APPELL, assistant pastor, was celebrant for the beautiful wedding of Miss Constance Marie Petrucci of W. Pershing st. and Paul Richard Campanelli of Lisbon at 10:30 a. m. this morning in St. Paul's Catholic Church.

Miss Sarah Colman, church organist, sang the mass and accompanied Thomas McKenna of Lisbon, guest soloist, for the musical prelude. He sang "Ave Maria" for the offertory and "On This Day Oh Beautiful Mother" for the recessional.

Lighted by white candles, the chancel was decorated with white gladioli and snapdragons intermingled with cibotium fern and ivy.

Mr. Petrucci escorted his daughter to the altar where he gave her in marriage. The bride's classic gown of slipper satin was designed with a high Elizabethan collar which was softly rolled at the neckline. There were tiny self-covered buttons from the neckline down to the hips.

The sleeves were long and tight and the full gathers of the skirt fell into a long train. Her tulle finger-tip veil was attached to a cloche type cap and was trimmed in strands of pearls. She carried calla lilies in a garden bouquet.

Placing her bouquet on the side altar she picked up her mother of pearl prayer book and rosaries. For the traditional something old, the bride wore her grandmother's diamond necklace.

In the bridal procession were two sisters of the bride, Miss Mary Jane Petrucci, maid of honor, and Miss Toni Petrucci, bridesmaid. Other bridesmaids were: Misses Joan Hannay and Loretta and Jean Cocco of Salem and Mrs. James Magill of Columbiana.

Attendants wore white frosted organza gowns, styled identically. They also wore short white gloves and close fitting white taffeta clothes covered with violets. They carried bouquets of deep purple asters.

The bride's cousin, Bernadette Capito, was flower girl. Attired in a white frosted organza formal over lavender taffeta, she carried mixed garden flowers. Her close fitting matched the bridesmaids. Gregory Capito was his cousin's ringbearer.

Robert Campanelli was his brother's best man. Eugene Stietz, James Gruber, Louis Foster, David Walker and Thomas Gallo, all of Lisbon, seated the guests.

Mrs. Petrucci's ankle-length dress was fashioned of ice blue chiffon and her accessories were in the same tone. Mrs. Campanelli used white accessories with a pink chiffon dress. Both wore orchid corsages.

Following the wedding, a dinner was served for 250 members of the family and guests at the Eagles hall.

Three hundred guests are expected to attend the reception tonight at the hall. A six-tiered wedding cake topped with a gardenia and garlanded with tiny rosebuds will grace the refreshment table. Mrs. Sam Campanelli of Lisbon and Mrs. George Capito of Warren will assist in serving.

For a honeymoon trip to Montreal, Canada, the bride wore a black and red summer crepe print dress with harmonizing accessories and an orchid corsage. The newlyweds will reside at Pleasant Heights, Lisbon.

Mrs. Campanelli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Petrucci of W. Pershing st., graduated from Salem High School and attended Kent State University. She is employed in the Mullins Mfg. Corp. office.

Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Campanelli of Lisbon. He attended Lisbon High School and during the war served in Japan. He is now employed in the advertising department at the Deming Co. office.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

OPINION—GOSSIP—NOTES—

YESTERDAY'S STARS: Batting: Luke Easter (Indians) socked two-run homer to give Cleveland 3-2 victory over Philadelphia. Pitching: Hal Newhouser (Tigers) effectively scattered nine hits and struck out eight in pitching pace-setting Detroit to 4-1 triumph over Boston.

IF YOU are tired of the thrills of battling a hotdog while keeping score at the ball park or wrestling with a soda pop while looking through a periscope at a golf match, Fearless-Fraley has the sport to bring you up and running.

The direction is strictly up to you, but the modus operandi is shark fishing in the Philippine seas.

Take it from the department of the interior, the Philippine seas are lousy with 'em. And they're got all kinds: tigers, man-eater, hammerhead, cat, cow, gray, black-finned and mackerel sharks.

The gear used in this sport consists of a longline trawl or gill netting. There's no use of going any further, because I'm too confused to figure out just how they are used. Experts undoubtedly are on hand, however, to teach the novice.

The bait used is an interesting angle. They use water buffalo, wild pig, fish flesh—and horses.

Actually, according to the Department of the Interior, this shark fishing business has commercial possibilities.

Did you realize that a ton of shark livers is worth $800?

There are numerous other by-product possibilities: oil, hides, fins, meat, meal and teeth. The teeth were going at 50 cents per 100 at the last market report and a shark having several rows of teeth would be worth $1.50 to $2.00 for the teeth alone. Cheap at half the price.

In other words, a shark on the hook is worth from $15 to $20 if every part is utilized. It does, however, take a lot of utilizing. And I would suppose that you'd have to be in the mood.

Spanks Yanks

NEW YORK YANKEE pitching has been something less than sensational this season due to the inability of Joe Page to find his 1949 form as a reliever. And on top of that they haven't been setting anybody's league on fire in hitting.

We know of Joe DiMaggio's season-long slump at bat and the failure of some others, but Thursday the thing became an epidemic of frustration.

Of all the swinging the Yankees did all afternoon against Billy Pierce, a grand total of one hit was amassed. Page has been almost useless and obviously is going to suffer through an off-season.

One way and another this may be a slightly confusing season in American League. With the campaign approaching the half-way mark the defending Yankees and the favored Red Sox both are scuffling and the Detroit Tigers are winging along out in front.

The Tigers have no stranglehold on the standings. They hold only a game and a half on the Yanks, but they are getting pitching and hitting. What more do you need?

The National League remains all snarled up in the customary scramble. There are only 6½ games between the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals and the fifth place Chicago Cubs, with Brooklyn, Philadelphia and Boston all in the thick of it.

Brooklyn still may have the best team but you can't tell it by the standings.

If you were going to pick a team from each league now to win the pennant—on what they have shown and the way they stack up—you probably would go along with the Tigers and the Dodgers. The Cardinals seem most likely to upset this.

Dixon's Daily Dozen

THE life of the average major leaguer, while a profitable one, must have its headaches, too.

Take the case of Mickey Vernon, former Washington first sacker, former Cleveland first sacker and now a Washington first sacker.

He spent several years in the capital and met with some success, winning the batting crown one year. He must have thought he'd be there for some time and so he probably bought himself a home.

The next thing he knew, he was traded to the Indians in 1948, so he moved to Cleveland. He likely wound up selling his Washington place and buying one in the Forest City.

Now after a year with the Tribe, the high brass trades him back to the Nats. He's off again, moving family and household goods back where it came from.

We don't think it would be much fun to have one of those trade deals hanging over your head. It could prove very upsetting to the little woman when she had to pack and move every so often.

Then, too, the player generally has no knowledge of his trade beforehand. He's often the last one to learn of it.

Consider the complex career of Bobo Newsom, who played with humpsteens teams in both leagues. He must have kept his bags permanently packed.

Come to think of it, army or navy life was somewhat similar. You could never tell when your name might be on travel orders. But then you had a limited amount of junk to move and never any housing problem.

We don't suppose the minor leaguer minds too much moving from a bush league town to the majors, but it must be quite a comedown when the path is reversed and the player is on his way down.

Everything considered, the big league ball player is somewhat of a nomad all through his career. Half the time in each season is spent in hotels, while his team is on the road. The only time he's really "home" is during the winter months.

Their life must have its compensating points, however. We don't recall having heard Joe DiMaggio do much complaining.

Mitchell's Liner Injures Kellner

Tebbetts Ejected In Boston-Detroit Row

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

PREACHER Roe must be Public Enemy No. 1 in St. Louis. Every time the Cards get hot, the lanky southpaw from Hardy, Ark., holds up the stop sign.

The preacher man did it again last night, snapping a seven-game St. Louis win streak, as he pitched Brooklyn to a 7-3 victory. The result slashed the Cards' lead to 2½ games.

Beating St. Louis is old stuff for Roe, who once toiled in the Card chain gang. Last year he whipped the Red Birds four out of five. So far this year he's 3-1 against St. Lou with more than half the season to go.

JOHNNY SAIN, making the pitching comeback of the year, won his ninth for the Boston Braves on Sam Jethroe's ninth inning single with two out. Jethroe's hit, prolonging his streak to 12 games, scored Sibby Sisti for a 6-5 edge over luckless Pittsburgh.

AL DARK and Hank Thompson provided the power for the New York Giants' Sheldon Jones in a 6-1 victory over Chicago, the Giants' ninth win in 12 games. Thompson homered to tie the score in the fourth and Dark's two-run double put the Giants out front to stay in the fifth.

The only day game in the majors, Cincinnati at Philadelphia, was rained out.

Hal Newhouser whipped Boston for the second time in six days, 4-1, before 54,088 Detroit home fans. Striking out Johnny Pesky four times, Newhouser scattered nine hits. Hal's fifth-inning double drove in what proved to be the decisive run.

There was a wild rhabarb in the fifth. It was 0-0 at the time, Detroit batting with Johnny Groth on second and Aaron Robinson on first. Dick Kryhoski forced Robinson and Groth scored when umpire Bill McKinley ruled Kryhoski safe at first.

A mass protest by the Red Sox, led by Birdie Tebbetts, Walt Droppo and Manager Joe McCarthy, followed. Tebbetts finally was ejected. Next man up, Newhouser, doubled Kryhoski home. There was another argument when Newhouser was called out for running out of the base line.

FOUR OF THE players involved in the eight-man deal Thursday night saw action as the New York Yankees downed St. Louis, 7-5. Joe Ostrowski and Tom Ferrick pitched for the Yanks and Jim Delsing and George Stinewiss played for the Browns.

Ostrowski stopped a Brownie threat in the seventh after starter Vic Raschi was knocked out. Then he was lifted for a pinch hitter. Ferrick finished up with two scoreless innings but the win went to Raschi. Delsing drove home two St. Louis runs, scoring one. Stinewiss, playing third base, knocked in one with a double and also scored one.

Alex Kellner hit by a Dale Mitchell line drive, was in a hospital when his Philadelphia A's finally lost a 3-2 game to Cleveland. Kellner was hit on the left temple by the liner on the fifth and carried off the field. X-rays disclosed no fracture. Shortly after Kellner's injury, Luke Easter hit a two-run homer that won game.

Ray Scarborough pitched Chicago to its sixth win in a row, 7-1 over Washington. He walked 10 but allowed only five hits.

Bliss, Mullins Win AA Games

Butler Grange Beaten 12-8 By C. I. O. Team

Wayne "Muscles" Russell twirled the league-leading Bliss to a 6-0 shutout over the Electric Furnace Friday night at West End Park in one of two Class AA games.

While Russell was limiting the opposition to three hits, his teammates managed to get out six runs on four hits to give him the contest. Bill Davidson smashed a homer for Bliss in the fifth inning with one aboard.

In the second game, Sanitary went down in defeat 4-3 at the hands of Mullins to drop down in seventh place in the league standings.

Bob Jefferies clouted a round-tripper in the fourth inning with one on to put the Sanitary ahead 3-2, but Charles "Mutt" Schaefer, the winning pitcher, won his own game with a four-bagger in the fifth with one on.

Three home runs were featured when CIO bagged its sixth win by beating Butler Grange, 12-8, in the single Class A game played at the park.

Red Hall slammed one with two on and Don McGaffick also got one in the fourth inning for CIO and Bob Coppock blasted one in the fifth for Butler Grange.

Rivals Move Against Leader Lawson Little

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., June 17—(AP)—After pausing briefly to chase Jack Burke Jr., the field is back on the trail of Lawson Little in the fourth round of the slightly dizzy Palm Beach golf tournament today.

Little, first-round leader of the 16 competing pros with a point total of plus 15, lost the lead to Burke in the morning round of yesterday's play, then won it back again in the afternoon to finish the day with plus 21 and a three point lead over his closest rival, Claude Harmon.

Eighteen holes will be played today over the Wykagyl Country Club course, with the final 18 tomorrow.

Trojans In Stride

MINNEAPOLIS, June 17—(AP)—The 29th national Collegiate Athletic Association track and field meet moved into the final round today. After yesterday's 10-event trials, the Trojans of Southern California seemed destined to pile up more than 50 points for a sweep to their 14th crown. Dark horse contender Yale had a flickering title hope resting on three performers, headed by defending shot-put champion Jim Fuchs.

Red Caps Defeat Homeworth Girls

In the best girls softball game of the season, the Salem Red Caps won over the Homeworth team 4-1 Thursday night at Chisholm's field.

Ann DeJane, Red Cap twirler, set down Homeworth with a sparse two hits as Ruth May paced the winners at the plate with two hits.

The next game in the girls league will feature the Amvets and South Side Sunocos on Monday evening.

Citrus Plant In Florida Burns

Polk Packing Loss Placed At $2,000,000

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., June 17 (AP)—A multi-million dollar fire that raged out of control for hours destroyed one of the Florida's largest citrus plants early today.

Police officials estimated that damage to the sprawling Polk Packing Association plant would exceed $2,000,000.

The fire was discovered about 11 p. m. last night in a second-floor office in a building adjoining the main packing plant. It spread quickly to other structures on the 10-acre installation, and fire fighting apparatus from seven nearby towns was summoned to aid in fighting the blaze.

The huge processing and canning plant, with about four acres of building space under roof, produced both orange and grape fruit concentrates. About a quarter of a million boxes of citrus fruit were lost.

Equipment from Bartow, Lake Wales, Lake Alfred, Haines City, Lakeland, Eagle Lake and Auburndale aided Winter Haven firemen in bringing the fire un-

Three firemen were casualties—none serious.

John Snively, owner of the plant, said he expected the loss to reach $2,500,000.

CENSUS GAIN ONE

PRINCETON, Ill., June 17—Bureau county hasn't exactly stood still during the last 10 years. The population in 1940 was 37,600. The 1950 census, just announced, is 37,601.

Truman Veto Of Basing Point Bill May Stand

WASHINGTON, June 17 (UP)—Senate Democratic Leader Scott W. Lucas of Illinois said today he doubted that the senate would try to override President Truman's veto of the basing point bill. Even if supporters of the measure should try such a move, he said, they probably could not muster the necessary two-thirds vote.

The bill which would have allowed manufacturers to charge uniform delivered prices in different areas regardless of varying freight costs, was vetoed Friday by President Truman.

Air Farm Tour Taken By 300

Seven Planes Carry District Farmers

More than 300 farmers boarded seven planes Friday at the Paxson Airfield, three miles northwest of Salem on Route 14, to view conservation practices in Columbiana County.

Sponsored by county granges, the 50-mile tour lasted all day. Weather conditions favored the farmers who were quite pleased with the sights. Each flight was a half-hour long, with planes taking off at intervals throughout the entire daylight hours.

The Salem fire department furnished a truck and two men to stand by in case of emergencies. Two dusting planes and one spray ship gave demonstrations following lunch which was served at the field.

Termed a "huge success," the tour may become an annual affair. Virgil Edgerton, master of Willow Grove Grange, was chairman of the steering committee for the tour.

The event was believed to be one of the largest in county grange history.

Cloudburst

through the town and northward to Roseville, another pottery-making community of 1,500 about five miles north of Crooksville. As the flood began to recede here early today it began to rise rapidly in Roseville.

Rescue Workers On Hand Word that the dam had broken sent scores of rescue workers rushing to the scene. The highway patrol, the National Guard and the Red Cross sent equipment and manpower.

Four army ducks, two from McConnellsville and two from Newark, were aiding in rescue efforts. Red Cross equipment arrived from Newark and 15 to 20 boats were dispatched from Buckeye Lake, 30 miles away.

The patrol's efforts were impeded by the power failure which cut off its radio transmitters at Hebron and Lancaster, both in the general area of this stricken community.

The patrol received a report a New York Central railway track at Saltito, near Crooksville, was badly undermined by the rushing water.

Another report, which could not be confirmed, was to the effect an unidentified mother and her two children were rescued from the top of a car stalled in the high water near Crooksville.

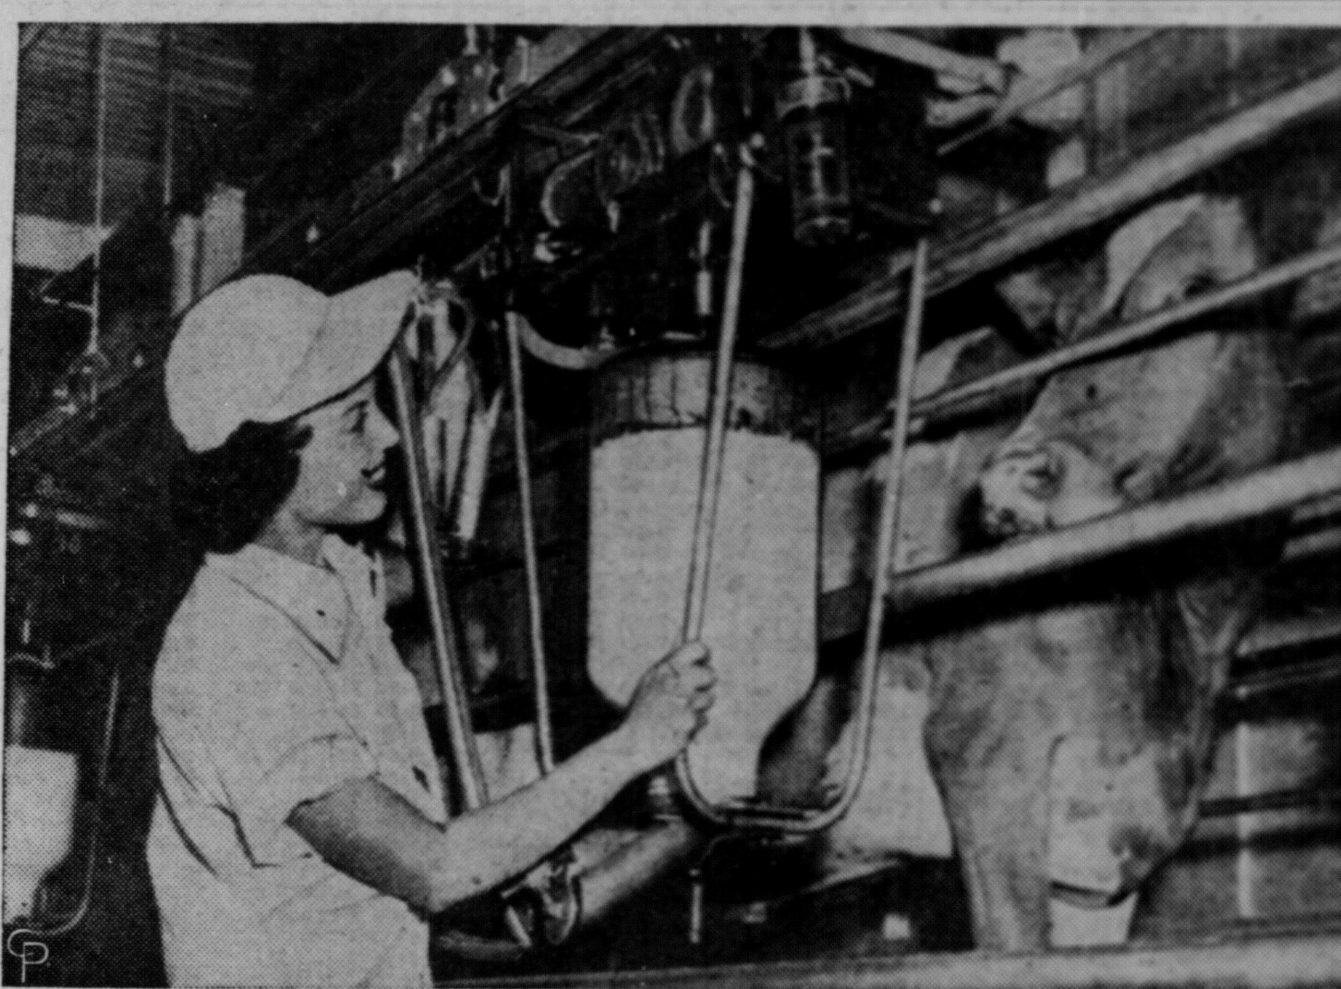

Damage at the Ohio Power Company station here was reported heavy.

Youngstown Attorney Talks To Goshen Alumni

DAMASCUS, June 18 — Miss Naomi Shinn of the Benton Rd., sang two solos at the annual banquet of the Goshen Union High School Alumni Association Friday evening at the High School. She was accompanied by Mrs. Glenn L. Davis of Salem.

Attorney Edwin Stanley of Youngstown was the main speaker. Floyd Stanley of Damascus was toastmaster.

Officers of the Association are: President, Terry Nash of East Palestine; vice president, Paul Buttermore, Jr., Damascus; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Kenneth Hutcheson of R. D., Salem.

THIS NEW CONVEYOR BELT milking contraption sure has bossie surprised. But it is reported to enable two dairymen to handle 100 cows in a record 57 minutes. The herd goes up a ramp single file, through an automatic door, there to begin a 110-foot ride at 10 feet a minute. Mrs. Bernice Kitchen demonstrates how "mechanized milcher" is attached to source of supply.

Further Amerasia Questioning Looms

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) suggested today that the senate committee looking into the 1945 Amerasia case call Deputy Undersecretary of State John E. Peurifoy for questioning.

Hickenlooper made the suggestion as the inquiry group arranged to take testimony behind closed doors next Thursday from Career Diplomat John S. Service, one of the six persons arrested in the secret documents episode five years ago.

Service was cleared in the case and returned to duty in the State Department. The case involved the removal of hundreds of secret government documents found by the FBI in the offices of the now-defunct Amerasia magazine.

Both Peurifoy and Service figure in a separate Amerasia controversy touched off by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) in a speech Thursday night.

Speaking at Groton, Conn., the Wisconsin senator said Peurifoy had offered legal aid and loyalty clearance to Emmanuel S. Larsen, another of the six persons involved in the case, in return for testimony favorable to Service when Larsen appeared before the senate investigators.

Peurifoy and Larsen both denied that accusation.

Ohio National Guard Vehicles On The Move

COLUMBUS, June 17 (AP)—Many Ohio highways will be crowded today and tomorrow by Ohio National Guard vehicles en route to Camp Atterbury, Ind., where the 37th Infantry Division will hold its annual two weeks of field training.

The highway patrol warned that the following highways will not be cleared until 3 p. m. Sunday: Routes 4, 16, 18, 20, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30, 33, 35, 40, 42, 52, 98, 122, 127 and 224.

ANSWER FALSE ALARMS

City firemen answered two false alarms at People's Lumber Co. Friday afternoon, one at 3:55 and the other at 4:15. Both apparently were accidental. Electricians working on the system unintentionally touched off the second alarm.

Deaths and Funerals

Claude B. Currier

Claude Burdette Currier, 77, of 652 E. Fifth st., died at 9:30 a. m. today at the Mayhew Nursing Home following a long illness.

Born July 18, 1872, at Berlin Heights, Ohio, he was the son of Silas and Perceptia Currier.

Mr. Currier, a carpenter, was injured in a fall in 1925 at Cleveland. Mr. and Mrs. Currier moved to a Berlin Center farm in 1927 and came to Salem in 1937. He was a leader in the Bethany Presbyterian Church in Cleveland.

Survivors include his wife, Cuesta; two daughters, Elinor, Salem News staff writer, at home, and Mrs. Pauline McLean of Cleveland; three granddaughters and four great-grandsons.

Funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at the Arbaugh-Pearce funeral home, with Rev. Leonard Smith of Plymouth, Ohio, nephew of Mrs. Currier, and Rev. Harold Ogden officiating. Burial will be in Hope Cemetery.

MacMillan Sets Sail On Northward Voyage

BOOTHBAY HARBOR, Me., June 17 (AP)—Like a homing sea-bird, Commander Donald B. MacMillan's schooner Bowdoin glides northward late today (4 p. m. Salem time) on an 8,000-mile cruise to familiar Arctic waters.

Aboard the trim white two-master are the 75-year-old north-land explorer, his attractive wife, Miriam, three adult aides and 10 college and prep school student-sailors.

The voyage, sponsored by MacMillan's alma mater, Bowdoin college will take the expedition to Kane Basin, 10 degrees south of the Pole. Bird and plant specimens will be collected for Bowdoin and Harvard museums.

CHOOSE OHIO BELL MAN

DETROIT, June 17—The new president of Michigan Bell Telephone Co. is John A. Greene of Cleveland, operations vice president of Ohio Bell Telephone Co. Michigan Bell directors elected him to the post yesterday.

Girl Found Slain At St. Clairsville

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, June 17 (AP)—The body of teen-aged Alma Montag of nearby Croft Run, O., was found today in a field, battered and apparently raped.

Joe Dyrdek, a St. Clairsville restaurant owner who lives in the neighborhood, and his sister, Pauline, found the body.

Coroner Richard Niple withheld a verdict pending an investigation. The girl's head was beaten and identity was nearly impossible from her features. She wore a 1949 Bellaire High School class ring, which gave the slim clue on which the girl was identified. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Montag.

County School System Still Needs Teachers

Contrary to previous reports, teachers are being re-employed in Columbiana County schools on temporary certificates providing they meet State Department of Education requirements, Supt. J. L. McBride said today.

Teachers with high school certificates, who are teaching in the grades on a temporary certificate, will be re-certified as the shortage of elementary teachers is still acute, he explained.

Elementary teachers teaching with temporary certificates with less than five years of teaching experience must present transcript for six hours credit taken this year for renewal of temporary certificate.

Elementary teachers with five years or more of recent experience will be re-certified without additional work, but the State Department of Education warns these should take work leading to a regular certificate as temporary certificate will probably not be issued after the 1950-51 year.

Elementary teachers with less than five years of recent experience must secure six hours of credit before temporary certificates can be renewed.

It takes Time to make Friends

The making of friends is cumulative. One friend tells another and gradually the circle grows.

The success of any business is measured by the goodwill of its customers, and goodwill is merely friendship. It can be had and held only by giving friendly, satisfactory service.

The continual growth of the First National Bank for 87 years is proof of its desire and ability to create friends. The goodwill of its customers has been EARNED.
